

Dear colleagues,

Welcome to the December AAUT newsletter. I would like to thank you for your ongoing support over this year. I'm very pleased that we have once more managed to deliver a successful round of national awards.

This month I would like to acknowledge the work of the 138 AAUT assessors. In particular, the 17 assessors who have supported us throughout these last five years. They have all volunteered their time and willingly contributed their expertise to continue this important program. We could not have done this without all of you.

This year, we have received 15 Career Achievement Award nominations. These individuals are being nominated for their significant and impactful contribution to teaching and learning that has been sustained over 25 years. The name of the winning nomination will be released in a formal announcement by Universities Australia, in mid- to late-February 2023. Thank you to all VCs who took the time to nominate this year.

I'm honoured to have been invited to present at the International Society for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning \(ISSoTL\) 2022 conference in Kelowna, Canada 2-5 Nov. ISSoTL fosters collaborative, interdisciplinary, and innovative collaboration of scholars in different countries and disciplines and the flow of new findings across national borders. Please encourage your star educators to engage in this conference to advance their own Scholarship of Teaching and Learning.

Professor Carol Rolheiser and I (pictured top left), who co-chaired the Special Interest Group (SIG) on Scholarship of Leading for the past 7 years, passed the baton onto the new incoming co-chairs Professor Kerryyn Butler-Henderson & Professor Aarthu Ashok (pictured bottom left).

Finally, the AAUT Awards Team will be on leave from Friday 23 December 2022 and will be returning to the office Monday 9 January 2023. The next newsletter will be released in February 2023 (we'll be skipping January).

I wish you all a safe and happy holiday season break, and look forward to returning in 2023 to complete the current Awards round.

Regards,
Professor Angela Carbone

2022-23 TIMELINE

AAUT UPDATE

Assessment update

Assessors can now have a well-deserved break as we pass their final assessments over to the Award Committees. The Assessor Evaluation Survey was sent out 21 Nov - 2 Dec and we received 47 responses. Thank you to all the assessors who participated in this survey - your insightful feedback will help to shape and improve future rounds of the AAUT.

In December, the Award Committees will meet virtually to review and finalise the outcome for the Universities Australia \(UA\) Board of Directors to endorse and sign-off on the recipients list. UA will then announce the recipients in February 2023.

A big thank you to this year's 138 AAUT assessors for their contributions. From 2018 to 2022, we've engaged 747 assessors who assessed over 700 submissions. They have volunteered their time and to give back to AAUT. Among them, there are 17 assessors who have continuously supported the awards over the last five years and beyond!

Thank you ICOs!

Thank you to all the ICOs for their ongoing support of the AAUT. We're delighted to receive your positive feedback and encouragement from the ICO survey. We wanted to share some highlights - see image of quotes below. Your suggested changes and improvements have also been recorded for future rounds.

“Congratulations on the newly developed resources and information sessions.
They have been really useful for our applicants.”

“AAUT communications are great and have been progressively refined each year.”

“Amazing team and commitment to upholding this wonderful National Awards program - thank you for all that you do and your incredible responsiveness during my first year as ICO.”

“Everyone, from our leadership teams to our applicants and their critical friends, sees enormous value in the AAUT and hope to see it continue well into the future.”

Announcement of Award recipients

Universities Australia (UA) Board of Directors will endorse and sign-off on the final AAUT Award recipients list by early February 2022. The notification of outcome to all institutions is planned to be released mid- to late-February 2023. All results will be under embargo until UA formally announces the outcome. More details to come.

This year, we've received 15 nominations for the Career Achievement Award (CAA), including 10 new nominees. The CAA Committee - including Committee Chair and 2017 CAA recipient Prof Sally Kift; UA Academic Policy Director Mr Mike Teece; and AAUT Awards Director Prof Angela Carbone - have now reviewed and shortlisted the nominations. Based on this shortlist, the UA Board of Directors will decide on the final recipient(s) who will be formally announced together with the AAUT recipients in February 2023.
