

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to the first AAUT newsletter of 2024! We are delighted to announce the recipients of the 2023 Australian Awards for University Teaching.

Firstly, we would like to acknowledge the significant amount of time and effort that all nominees have put towards developing their applications, with the great support of their Institutional Contact Officers (ICOs), and to the 138 assessors who generously devoted their time to make considered, tough and often difficult decisions. Without their continued commitment, dedication and passion, a celebration like this would not be possible.

Recipients of the 2023 Australian Awards for University Teaching were formally announced via video on Monday evening 26 February by Universities Australia Chair Professor David Lloyd, AAUT Director Professor Angela Carbone, and all the Award Committee Chairs, including Prof Pip Pattison (Teaching awards), Prof Liz Johnson (Citations), Prof David Sadler (Programs) and Prof Sally Kift (Career Achievement Award). The video announcement can be viewed on the AAUT-UA website.

Congratulations to all the successful recipients, and particular accolades to the following three recipients:

Details of the successful recipients can be viewed in this edition of the newsletter below.

All nominees will receive an official email on the outcome of their nomination, with detailed feedback from the assessment panels sent to all ICOs for distribution in late March. Once again, congratulations to all the award recipients.

And finally, we are pleased to announce that Universities Australia has confirmed the AAUT program for 2024. Please note the timeline below in this newsletter. More information about key submission dates and briefing sessions will be sent out via email and newsletters in the coming months.

Regards,
Professor Angela Carbone
AAUT Director
