

Dear Colleagues

I'm pleased to announce that the AAUT webpage is now updated with information and resources for this year's nominees. Our focus will remain on providing professional development and tailored support for nominees in all programs. Please share the updated brochures provided within your own institution and feel free to start discussing your nomination with your Institutional Contact Officer. This year, we will also be developing a new professional development program for nominees and assessors, delivered in May, June and October - more details to come via email.

The 2023 AAUT Awards have been successfully concluded, with all nominees having received assessors' feedback. We strongly encourage nominees to consider reapplying in the 2024 program if they have received advice to do so for Citations or Teaching Awards. Please utilise the constructive feedback provided and take advantage of the AAUT mentor scheme, which now includes new 2023 award recipients. More information is provided in the newsletter below.

And finally, the Awards Team recently launched Credly verified digital credentials for AAUT award recipients, from 2023 onwards. The 2023 award recipients will receive their digital badges following their respective state-based ceremonies. Each recipient will receive an email invite to claim their digital badge and share their achievement with colleagues, managers, and professional networks/social media.

and assessors for the upcoming 2024 round.

Regards,
Angela

AAUTN Mentor Scheme

The AAUTN Award Mentor Scheme draws on the skills and experience of the AAUT Teaching Award winners. The scheme has two distinct themes:

- Advice and support for aspiring award nominees on the development of their AAUT nominations.
- Mentoring for recent recipients of the national Teaching Excellence awards.

To date, there are 57 registered mentors from 21 institutions, who have volunteered to act as mentors for future awards applicants. We also have three new mentors from the 2023 program including:

- 2023 Australian University Teacher of the Year A/Prof Zala Volcic from Monash University
- 2023 Neville Bonner Award recipient A/Prof Kerry Bodle from Griffith University
- 2023 Teaching Award recipient A/Prof Sarah Cresswell from Griffith University

We encourage aspiring nominees for the 2024 AAUT program to utilise this invaluable 'self-serve' system: Mentees choose a mentor from the list and approach them by email. Please be mindful that mentors' workloads and responsibilities will fluctuate - they may already be 'booked', or personal circumstances may reduce their availability.
